ENVIRONMENTAL LAW PROGRAM

2018 Haub Visiting Scholar Call for Nominations and Letters of Interest

The Environmental Law Program at the Elisabeth Haub School of Law at Pace University is seeking letters of interest and nominations for its annual Haub Environmental Visiting Scholar. The Scholar will be a professional with a proven track record in environmental law, governance, policy, economics and/or science, who has worked in government, academia and/or the nonprofit sector. The appointment is designed to provide time for reflection and productive work, as well as opportunities to engage with Haub Law students, faculty and staff.

The Environmental Law Program at the Elisabeth Haub School of Law is internationally recognized and ranked in the top three environmental law programs in the nation. Haub Law provides a dynamic, personalized and multifaceted learning experience for its environmental law students from around the world, as well as a collegial and stimulating work environment for its faculty and staff. Our dedicated faculty have been pioneers in developing and implementing environmental law, and serve as national and global leaders in the field.

The scholar will be provided a substantial stipend, housing and transportation for a month-long residency. The Scholar will conduct his or her residency in the spring of 2018, with exact dates subject to negotiation. During the residency, the Scholar will present at a major public event, give guest lectures in his or her area of expertise, and generate a publication related to his or her work in affiliation with Haub Law. The Scholar will also be expected to meet with our environmental law students and attend program events, including an alumni reception.

Letters of interest and nominations must be received by October 1, 2017. Please send letters of interest, nominations and related inquiries to Jessica Steinberg Albin, Associate Director of Environmental Law Programs at jalbin@law.pace.edu.

Applications are especially encouraged from people of color, individuals of varied sexual and affectational orientations, individuals who are differently-abled, veterans of the armed forces or national service, and anyone whose background and experience will contribute to the diversity of our faculty. Pace University is committed to achieving completely equal opportunity in all aspects of University life.
