Pace Law School’s environmental law professors have a broad range and depth of expertise in environmental law. They are both prominent scholars and practitioners, who are recognized as national and world leaders in their fields. Staying current with the latest trends and emerging fields, our environmental faculty brings diverse and unique perspectives to the classroom. In addition to teaching, faculty members publish books, chapters, and articles, and frequently lecture at universities, organizations, and conferences at home and abroad. The following list highlights the publications of the full-time environmental faculty from 2011 through summer 2012.

Elizabeth Burleson

- Articles

- Chapters
  - Chapters 4a, 25, 26, and 27 in WATERS & WATER RIGHTS (Matthew Bender, 2011)
David N. Cassuto

- Articles

- Chapters
  - NEPA and Climate Change in 30 YEARS OF NEPA IN BRAZIL (2011).

Karl S. Coplan

- Articles

Robert F. Kennedy, Jr.

- Articles

John R. Nolon

- Articles
  - Affirmatively Furthering Fair Housing: The Search for Solutions that are Just Right, ___ Zoning and Planning Law Reporter ___ (forthcoming 2012).

- Chapters

- Books
Richard L. Ottinger

- Chapters

Ann Powers

- Articles
  - Reported on UN environmental meetings for the UN Council’s bimonthly publication, Environmental Policy and Law: The Journal for Decision Makers.

Nicholas A. Robinson

- Articles
- Chapters